

E-Commerce Sales Analysis 2023-2024

Ewelina Silina | Data Analyst

Project Overview

Dataset: 5,000 orders | 2023–2024 | 10 European markets

Tools: PostgreSQL · SQL · Looker Studio

Goal: Identify revenue drivers and growth opportunities
6 business questions answered through SQL analysis

Key Findings

- Electronics generates 63% of total revenue (€959K)
  - Germany is the top market with €182K revenue
  - Direct channel has the highest average order value (€338)
  - Returning customers represent 42% of all orders
  - Books category has the lowest cancellation rate
-

Revenue by Category

Electronics: €959,611 | Margin: 46.4%

Home & Garden: €186,940 | Margin: 45.6%

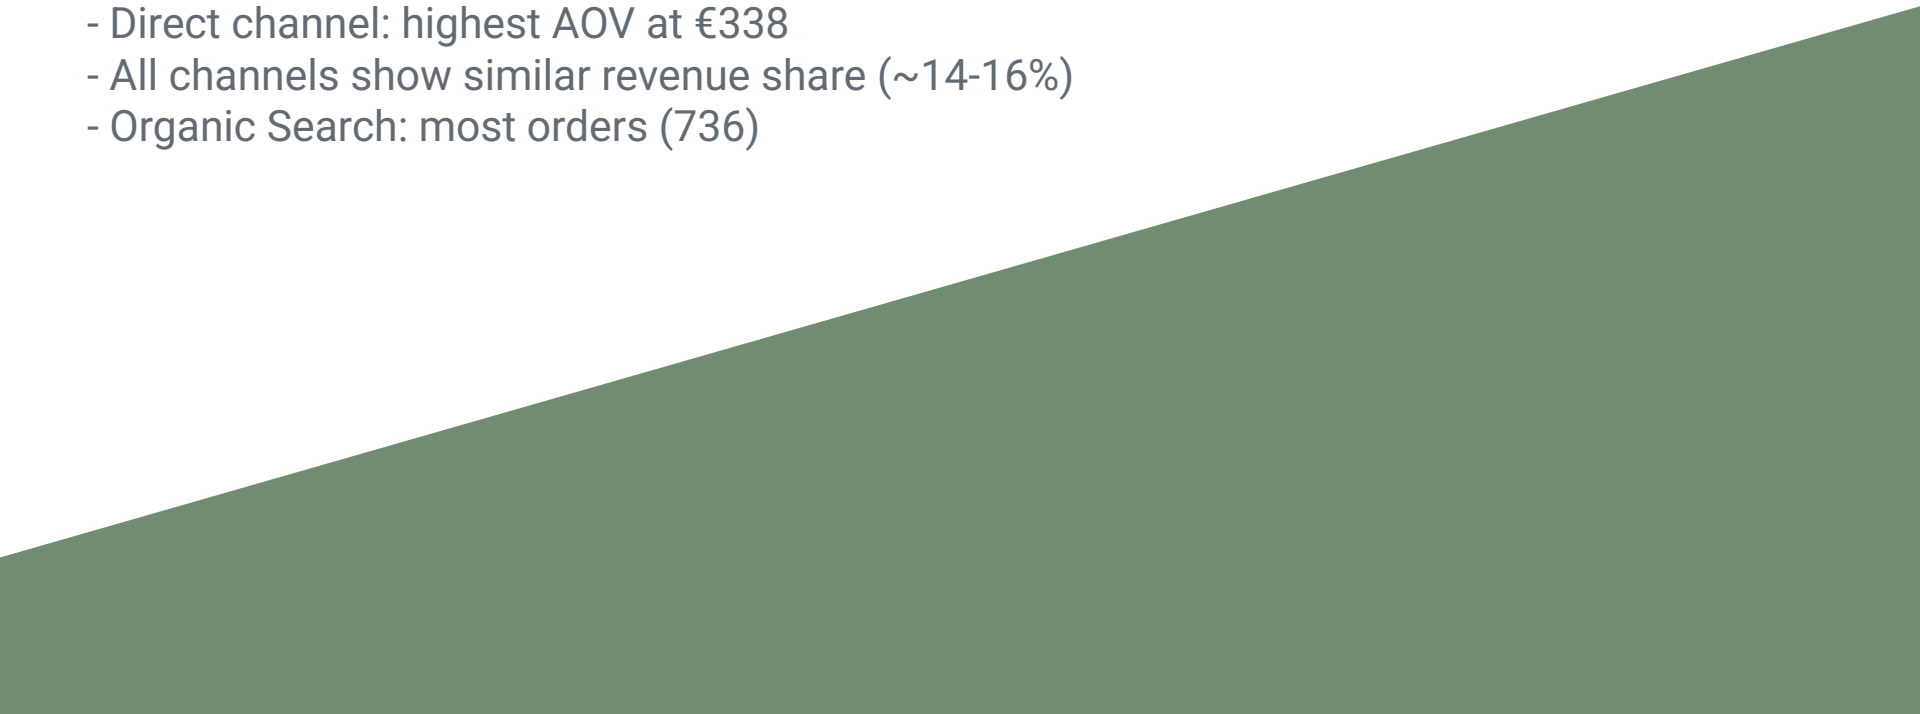

Clothing: €143,406 | Margin: 44.6%

Sports: €114,327 | Margin: 44.1%

Beauty: €73,571 | Margin: 43.1%

Books: €44,367 | Margin: 41.4%

Sales Trend & Acquisition Channels

- Revenue relatively stable across 2023–2024
  - Direct channel: highest AOV at €338
  - All channels show similar revenue share (~14-16%)
  - Organic Search: most orders (736)
-

Markets & Customer Segments

Top markets by revenue:

- Germany: €182K | Sweden: €168K | France: €158K

Customer segments:

- New customers: €903K total revenue | AOV: €308

- Returning customers: €619K total revenue | AOV: €299

Conclusions & Recommendations

- Focus marketing budget on Electronics category
  - Invest in German and Swedish markets
  - Improve retention — returning customers spend less
  - Investigate high cancellation rate in Books & Clothing
  - Direct channel drives quality customers — scale it up
- 